Alumni President Cares

Richard G. Chilcott Has Confidence In Franklin University

By LOUIS VARGA

Toward the end of 1965 the Franklin University Alumni Association elected a new president, Mr. Richard G. Chilcott. Mr. Chilcott, also Vice-President of the University's Board of Trustees, knows full well the needs and goals of a growing educational institution and is constantly working toward these achievements at Franklin. Many Franklin students know Richard Chilcott as "the one Board member who most fully communicates with the University's public." The students of the VOICE endorse this leader as one of the greatest proponents toward a better Franklin University.

After serving three years in the armed forces as a Marine, he began his career in the field of insurance in 1935 with the Nationwide Insurance Corporation. While working, Mr. Chilcott attended evening classes at a branch of Pennsylvania State University. The rising executive, originally from Reedsville, Pa., was continually on the move as Nationwide needed his services in different cities.

He came to Columbus in 1952 as Vice-President of Claims for the main office and continued his education at Franklin University, graduating with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration. Now Richard Chilcott is Vice-President of Public Relations for Nationwide, at 246 North High Street.

Besides his "outside" activities as a Franklin University board member and Alumni President, Mr. Chilcott participates on the boards of the Boys Club of America, the Columbus Hospital Federation, the National Independent League of Insurers, and is Chairman of the YMCA central branch board.

Mr. Chilcott is obviously a man who cares. His talents were realized recently by the United Appeal when he was named Campaign Chairman of 1969. When this reporter asked Chilcott about his approach for the next years campaign, the Chairman said, "The needs are greater each year, and so must be our goals."

Being the busy man that he is, Mr. Chilcott still finds time for relaxation. He enjoys fishing, gardening, hunting (deer and bear being his specialty), and traveling.

Chilcott explains that he isn't able to travel as much as he would like, but he did relate one special trip to this reporter. In 1959 he visited the Soviet Union. Vice-President Nixon was also in Moscow at the time. By contacting the U.S. Embassy Chilcott was fortunate enough to receive a press pass to follow the Nixon party through an exposition in Moscow.

Looking at the University, Mr. Chilcott expresses great confidence in Franklin's future. He emphasizes, however, that "... we must keep moving." The Alumni Association is presently aiding a program to build the Franklin University library to accreditation standards.

The students at Franklin University can feel confident that this fine community leader is backing their school's progress.

Raiders Travel To West Virginia

Coach Garrow and the Franklin Raiders say they're all warmed up and 'raring' to start off the basketball season with the 1968 warm-up tournament at Montgomery, West Virginia. The event will take place Friday and Saturday nights, November 29 and 30, in the West Virginia Tech gymnasium. Rio Grande College, Franklin University, Navy-Sublant, and West Virginia Tech will be the participants.

The games scheduled will be Navy-Sublant vs. Rio Grande College at 7:00 p.m. and West Virginia Tech vs. Franklin University at 8:30 p.m. on Friday. We might add Mike Barrett, who was a basketball gold medalist in the 1968 U.S. Olympics in Mexico, will be playing for Navy-Sublant.

The two teams that lose Friday will meet at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday. That same evening the two winning teams will meet at 8:30 p.m. for the championships. (Games played will not count in conference records.)

The admission price per person, per session for adults is (See Page 6)

The student is suggested to take part in the Booster's Club, now, while it is being reorganized, and before the February elections. If you are interested just leave a note in the main office for Jerry Clark or Wally Brown.

Accreditation Agencies, Part II

By Dave Oakes

In most other countries the standards or requirements for higher education institutions are set by the government, usually through a ministry of education. In the United States, the Federal Government sets no such standards and only a few states undertake to do so. Each state, under its constitution and statutes, has developed its own public colleges and universities which are largely supported by income from taxes. All of these institutions, both public and private, possess a high degree of autonomy in the organization and development of their educational programs.

Great variation among the institutions in the character and quality of their programs creates many problems in a country where the population moves freely from region to region. Many undergraduate students transfer from one institution to another. After obtaining their bachelor's degrees these students "scatter" all over the nation and to foreign countries for further education or for work in their chosen fields. Employers of college and university graduates, and boards which issue licenses to practice the professions find it difficult to be assured that applicants have been adequately prepared through their courses. Those who

Reilly Re-elected

Congratulations are in order to Franklin University Board of Trustees member Archer E. Reilly. He was re-elected Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. Judge Reilly is a 1953 graduate of the Franklin Law School.

Mr. Reilly, appointed to replace the retired Judge Dana Reynolds, turned back his Democratic challenger Josiah H. Blackmore by some 80,000 votes.

Boosters Begin Anew

The Franklin University Booster's Club will be holding elections for its officers this February. Executive members Jerry Clark and Wally Brown have emphasized that the students who want to take an active part at Franklin should join the Club now. Active Boosters Club members will be elected in February to the positions of: President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer.

The major purpose of the Club is to promote the activities at Franklin which will aid the University's growth. At present, the Club is working in conjunction with the Student Voice and Sigma Kappa Phi to support this year's basketball team and cheerleaders. The Club is also selling college-student products, such as class rings, clothing, and beer mugs.

VOICE Editor David Schaefer explains, "...the 'New' Booster's Club is a prime opportunity for students to become involved in the University. The sincerely

German Village Is What's Happening

By Drea Mock

For a German atmosphere in the All American city, German Village is What's Happening! A near-downtown area in south Columbus, the Village is a success story of urban renewal through private enterprise. It also is an accomplishment in preserving an historical section in the heart of a growing, fast-moving city.

In the early 1800's German families began a settlement in "South Columbus," impressing upon the community a distinctive architectural style. The houses were mostly single dwellings, Dutch double, or story and one-half. They were single in design--solid in construction. Today they are reconstructed as distinctively and impressively as they were then.

The Old World Bazaar, 555 City Park Avenue, is where you will find everything from antiques to the latest in men's fashions. Enclosed in the Bazaar are Juergen's Konditorei, Continental Jare, Inez Williams, Old World Bazaar Gifts, Little Pleasures, Lynne Michelle, Squire Limited, Lucy's Little Shop, and the Eagle's Nest. The Bazaar is open weekdays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

For a touch of mod originality, we next suggest a visit to Helen Winnemore's, 150 E. Kossuth, open between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Many of the gifts she handles are created by local artists and one-of-a-kinds that are very intriguing.

No tour is complete without a visit to the local park--German Village has Schiller Park. It may be best known as the annual location of the German Village "Octoberfest"--created for those who like good times in the Old World traditions. Schiller Park can also boast about its outdoor music center where concerts are enjoyed by all.

Since all these festivities have obviously made you 'thirsty,' why not have a cold beer and some warm German hospitality at the Bavarian Haus, 489 City Park Avenue. Perhaps German food is your bag. In that case, Plank's Garden Restaurants, 888 South High Street and 743 Parsons Avenue, are excellent. For an evening of entertainment, beer, and lots of fun, Schmidt's Sausage Haus, 240 E. Kossuth, would be The Place any Thursday, Friday or Saturday nights.

Some other points of interest in German Village are:

CHURCHES: 1) Livingston Avenue Methodist, Livingston at Mohawk Street; 2) St. John's Evangelical Protestant, 59 E. Mound Street; 3) St. Mary's Catholic, 684 S. Third Street; 4) South Congregational, 16 E. Stewart

The Id Nirvana Is Coming

By Sandy Clemens

Get in the groove, the Id Nirvana is coming! What is the Id Nirvana? Part of the meaning lies in its definition which is: Unconscious Instinctive Energy.

The four musicians who "do their own thing" are Richard Otcasek--rhythm guitar, 6 string, 12 string, and vocal; John Wiley, bass, 4 string, 8 string, and organ; Dan Donovan, lead guitar and vocal; and Joe Donovan, percussion.

This group feels they have a purpose with their music. This purpose is "to enhance a transition, to help you think and to help you open your soul to the beauty and beast of today's world."

When writing the "today" sound, they convey either a powerful mood or a gentle one. Their songs are sometimes angry, sometimes merciful.

The Id Nirvana believe in their own songs and try to get their messages across to the "now generation."

Richard Otcasek and John Wiley met in New York. Richard started in the big city by writing songs in the folk idiom, and John displayed his talents as an accomplished guitar and bass player.

When John and Richard were in Cleveland they teamed up with Dan and Joe Donovan.

After the four merged they hibernated for months to arrange and write songs to acquire the sound they wanted.

Of the four "with it" musicians, one is currently attending Franklin. Dan Donovan is majoring in electronics in the day college.

By the way, in case you haven't heard; the Id Nirvana is coming!

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas"

By Sally Sears

Gather ye roses, all you flower children. The wildest freak-out of the year is in progress. What ever your bag is, they're sure to be doing it in "I Love You, Alice B. Toklas."

This sometimes very funny excursion into the hippie world stars Peter Sellers as an attorney bored with his work, his possessive girlfriend, his domineering mother and his whole dull way of life.

The death of a family friend sends him into never-never land to get his brother (David Arkin), an upcoming hippie, to attend the funeral.

Arkin attends the service dressed in Indian mourning attire, complete with feathers and war paint. Accompanying him is his current roommate, Nancy (played by Leigh Taylor Young). She grabs all the attention, when she appears in the micro-mini skirt and a butterfly tattooed on her thigh.

The film has numerous funny moments and first moves with a brisk pace, but with the hippie characters involved no one knows exactly what will happen. This film has been heralded as one of the funniest of the year.

Other great flicks to see this month: "The Boston Strangler" at Loew's Ohio; "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" at Loew's Morse Road; and "Barbarella" at Eastland and Northlnd Cinemas.

What Is The Answer?

By F. Russell Grill
Franklin University Teacher

What does a pregnant teenager tell her parents? Why are we in Vietnam? What is the meaning of life? These are three thought-provoking questions currently being asked 24 hours a day, 7 days a week on local radio station WCOL-AM.

How would you answer these questions? In your opinion, why is there student unrest on college campuses across our nation? Why is the crime rate increasing six times faster than the population rate? Why are millions of Americans undergoing psychiatric counseling, while scores of thousands are turning to alcohol, LSD, and suicide? Why is there a Biafra? . . . a Congo? Why?

There IS an answer to all these questions -- an answer that is a live option for anyone who is sincerely and honestly seeking. Thousands of people -- from all walks of life -- in our world today have found the answer, people like Bill Glass, defensive end for the Cleveland Browns; Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys; Senator Mark Hatfield, of Oregon; singer Jerome Hines, of the Metropolitan Opera Company; and Roy Rogers and Dale Evans of Hollywood fame -- all give consistent and powerful testimony to how the answer they have found has given meaning, happiness, and peace to their lives.

What is the answer? In a little booklet entitled "The Four Spiritual Laws" are given the following key points, which can be helpful to you as you seek meaning in your life:

- 1) God loves you and has a wonderful plan for your life,
- 2) Man is sinful and separated from God,
- 3) Jesus Christ is God's only provision for man's sin, and
- 4) You must receive Christ as Savior and Lord by personal invitation into your heart and life.

What is the result of a person sincerely receiving Jesus Christ as his personal Lord and Savior? The result is that the individual receives the Answer to life and its problems, for the Answer is a Person -- Jesus Christ himself. Jesus said, "I am the Resurrection and the Life" (the answer to death); and "I am come that you might have life and have it more abundantly" (the answer to life).

Are YOU experiencing an abundant, meaningful life; or are you still seeking an answer? Have you ever given Christ a chance to speak to you down deep inside where you REALLY live -- where your fears and frustrations are carefully hidden away from all prying eyes? God knows your every thought; your life is an open book to Him. Won't you let the living Lord Jesus Christ come into your life right now? He's ready, willing, and able, if you'll but give Him the opportunity.

Two New Members In United Nations

By Mike Butler

The 23rd session of the General Assembly in the latter months of 1968 will go down in history as the one that saw the United Nations membership pass 125.

Swaziland was admitted as the 125th U.N. member on September 24. Equatorial Guinea became the 126th U.N. member on October 12.

The United Nations is fast approaching the point where it will have two and one-half times as many countries as it did on October 24, 1945.

To become a U.N. member a country first must get a recommendation from the Security Council. A recommendation of at least nine of the fifteen members must be obtained to avoid a big power veto. It must then be approved by a two-thirds vote in the General Assembly, which includes the whole U.N. membership.

Students Urged To Check Drivers Licenses

Chances are better than 50% that your Ohio driver's license expired sometime before Oct. 1.

The reason: Ohio's three-year license law was enacted in 1950, and put the people who then had licenses on a three-year cycle.

This is the anniversary of the cycle, and Fred Rice, registrar of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, estimates more than half of Ohio's 6.5 million licensed drivers will have to renew their licenses.

The current fee is $4. It was recently raised from $1 to provide funds for driver education and random vehicle inspection.

All licenses expire on the holder's birthday. Rice said the licenses can be renewed at any deputy registrar's office anytime between 30 days before the birthday or six months afterward without taking a new licensing exam. However, Rice noted that the license is not valid after the birthday and a person may not drive with an expired license.

FOR MEN ONLY Selective Service Information

Q. A friend of mine has told me he heard the President had abolished all occupational deferments in February of 1968. Is this true?

A. No. Occupational deferments are still being granted. Only the lists of Currently Essential Activities and Critical Occupations previously issued by the Departments of Commerce and Labor have been suspended. The local boards continue to consider requests for occupational deferment on the merits of each individual case.

Q. Why do I have to request a student deferment in writing when my college has already furnished my local board evidence of my satisfactory academic progress?

A. Selective service laws require registrants to request student deferments. It is the duty of the registrant to furnish his local board evidence of eligibility for such deferment. Information supplied by his educational institution is a part of that evidence. With student deferments, it is also the registrant's duty to provide the local board each year with proof he is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning.

Birth Control Controversy

By Bonnie Odgers

The archdiocese of Washington D.C. has recently seen a buildup of conflict over birth control.

On September 22, Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle of Saint Matthew's Cathedral, read his pastoral letter to twelve hundred parishioners. Two hundred walked out in silent protest before Cardinal O'Boyle had read the first sentence. Those who remained offered a standing ovation when they had heard the letter.

In other Washington churches where the letters were read, two groups of laymen sponsored smaller walk outs.

Cardinal O'Boyle's letter explained that he would give up everything he had, including every office he holds, if it would bring peace to the Church. But he cannot give up what belongs only to God. He went on to explain, "The teaching of the Church, which Pope Paul has reaffirmed in his encyclical, is true and right, and its truth and rightness are not something I can give away, or trade for some mere opinion..."

The religious lives of all Catholics are involved with this serious issue which is causing much dissension even among the priests.

Opposing the 72-year-old cardinal are 47 priests supporting the right of individual Catholics to use contraceptions if their consciences so dictate. They are reaffirming the right of a Catholic to act, once informed on the issues, according to his conscience. They have taken this stand rather than defy the encyclical itself.

Assertion of individual conscience is the stand also being taken by many churches in Europe who think O'Boyle's reaction unusually stiff. Some of these countries are England, Belgium, the Netherlands, and West Germany. In Austria Catholics need not even confess using contraception as a sin in order to receive Holy Communion.

Against previous warning from Pope Paul VI, the 2,500 delegates to the Third World Congress of the Lay Apostolate adopted a resolution which opposed the church's ban on artificial means of birth control. It included the passage, "The choice of the means to prevent a new conception should be left to the conscience of the married couple with due consideration of medical, psychological, economic and sociological insights."

The dispute rages on in Washington where the National Federation of Priests Councils call for arbitration was rejected by Cardinal O'Boyle. The meeting would have been concerned with the status of 16 priests whose ministerial duties have been partially or completely suspended by O'Boyle.

Knowing how the Pope feels about contraception, the dissenting priests hesitate to take their case to Rome. However, they may be aided by liberal feelings expressed by the National Council of Catholic Bishops at their November meeting.

Communication Gap With 'Rep.'

Where is Jeff Tobin?

In September I voted for Student Representative. According to the Student Voice:, the Student 'Rep.' "... is a voting member to the Board of Trustees of the VOICE:. It is his duty to actively present the students' views, criticisms, and problems to the Board, which the newspaper holds in trust for the students, with the purpose of coming to conclusions concerning their problems."

I think there are numerous views, criticisms, and problems to discuss, but there seems to be a communication gap. My question is where can we (the students) contact our representative, and when will we hear from him?

Any Negro Staff Members?

I am a concerned student of Franklin University. I am not one to complain, but I was wondering if Franklin University, in the future, intends on having any Negroes on its staff. Please don't misunderstand what I am trying to say. I'm not a militant or anything like that, but I'm quite sure there is a Negro qualified to work here.

I would appreciate some consideration of this subject.

"... Proud To Be Here"

I went to Ohio State last year, majoring in Education. While I was there, I felt like eight dots on an I.B.M. card. Unless you're a football or basketball player a student is just a cog in the wheel of mass education.

After transferring to Franklin University, it took me about two weeks to realize that it was the best move I could have made. The classes at Franklin are large enough to acquire more than just one point of view, but they are also small enough to receive personal attention. The knowledge one attains at this university is applicable to many professions, I am very proud to be here in the "College of Knowledge."

Dave Morris
 Student

Administration Lacks Spirit

I would like to voice a matter of great delicacy and extreme relevance pertaining to what I feel is one of the most crucial topics facing the future of Franklin University. I am referring mainly to the topic of morale and school spirit.

The administration, I believe, has been grossly negligent in fostering the "Espirit de Corp" required for the growth of any institution of higher learning. While some feeble attempts have been made, such as the establishment of basketball and golf teams, it is my belief that these are not enough.

Franklin is now the second largest institution of higher education in Columbus, topped only by the mammoth campus of Ohio State University. Why then is there not a more extensive athletic department, a strong student government, a financial aid program for students, and many other departments which the administration could instigate?

We do have good instruction at Franklin. We do have fine competent instructors. We are trying for accreditation, but do we have school pride that swells the chest when the Alma Mater is heard? By the way, where is the Alma Mater?

Bill Mathews
 Student

Attendance Rule

When ballots were completed in the September 'Rep.' election, a straw vote was compiled on the present attendance policy (Issue #3). The final outcome was 60% for the present policy and 40% against.

I feel that this six to four ratio is not indictative of the entire student body of Franklin University. For the most part the students that attend this University would rather have the present attendance policy used to set a range of attendance and leave the actual decision up to the professor and students in the different classes.

If the students that were asked to vote on this issue would have really thought about it, I feel that the result would have been quite different. If students want their say in the operation of Franklin University, a transition must be made by the student body from the passive to the active role.

Larry Hackenberg
 Student

World Situation Confusing

If Rip Van Winkle were to end his 20-year nap today, chances are the old reprobate would be even more confused than he was in the 18th century.

He would find students attempting to take over institutions of higher learning, trying to oust the faculties and destroying the facilities provided for their instruction.

He would find unkempt characters howling for free speech and shouting down any and all who disagreed with them. He would find two influential nations trading with each other who supply opposite sides of a minor country involved in a full-scale war.

He would see a cardinal punishing priests for favoring birth control while other priests took part in a break-in, burglary and arson.

Of course one need not have been asleep for the past 20 years to be somewhat confused by all this. Come to think of it, the majority of us must have been asleep for much longer to have allowed the present situation to develop.

What we are, as we allow it to continue, is best left unsaid.

Danny Walcott
 Student

We're Lacking Identification

College fee card identification is often required of students for various activities in a college or university community such as Columbus.

The only identification at present for Franklin University students is the tuition receipt. We feel this display of school identification to the public is second rate.

Both teachers and students at Franklin University are in agreement that a fee card identification program should be initiated.

We strongly suggest that the administration of our university seriously consider the endorsement of fee card identification for the convenience of its students and for the public relations of our university.

Program Organization Needed

A basic education is founded on initial steps of knowledge. The Ohio State University and other established universities maintain that a student take prerequisite courses. Each step should provide effective comprehension for the next. The courses at Franklin are not based on prerequisites, but a random, unguided selection by the students. We have the courses, but they lack a beneficial arrangement for the student and teacher. You can't beat organization!

We would like to see some action taken in the direction of establishing "prerequisites" at Franklin. With the help of effective counseling, Franklin could take this positive step toward a quality higher education.

view point

Carl J. Beck
 Chairman of the Board

A college can be evaluated by the quality of its graduates. This includes all graduates, not just outstanding ones.

At the present time only those graduates going on to do post graduate work are required to take any type of comprehensive test, that being the Graduate Record Examination.

What about the majority of Franklin graduates that do not go on to graduate schools? Where do they stand in comparison to other college graduates?

Most of them probably do not care to know; this, however, is not the point. This University should know how its graduates compare to the graduates of other universities.

This information is necessary if the university is concerned with improving its academic standards. If we do not know where we stand, how are we to know which direction to move toward improvement?

I would, therefore, suggest that all students applying for a degree be required to take the Graduate Record Examination, or some other type of comprehensive examination.

THERE IS NO STUDENT REPRESENTATIVE REPORT THIS MONTH. MR. TOBIN HAS NOT ATTENDED A BOARD MEETING, EVEN THOUGH THREE SPECIAL MEETINGS WERE ARRANGED TO SUIT HIS SCHEDULE.

Judging Questionable In '68 Olympics

Americans are proud of their athletes and the personnel connected with them in the '68 Olympics in Mexico. However, we are not as pleased with the way we seem to have been misjudged by foreign countries. It seemed to be that where we proved our place in an event such as swimming, track and field there was no question. Then in other events such as gymnastics and boxing where it was by judges decision only who won or lost we were graded very low. It may have been that the judges felt we did not deserve a place in certain events, because of our black power demonstrations. This is not right - you judge an athlete on his ability, not his personality or beliefs. We agree we had strong competition, but we were not as weak and un-talented as we were judged.

Paul Brown's Challenge

Paul Brown, the man primarily responsible for making professional football what it is today, is back in the game as the leader of the new Cincinnati Bengals.

"This may well be the biggest challenge of my career," says Brown, who is entering his 34th year of coaching.

"I know it's going to be tough," emphasizes Brown. "Just thinking about the competition we'll be facing makes me shudder. Putting together the Bengals is a great challenge, perhaps even greater than when we organized the Cleveland Browns 22 years ago."

Facing big challenges, of course, is nothing new for Paul Brown. He's met many of them in his distinguished coaching career and his brilliant record - 296 wins, 75 losses and 15 ties - speaks for itself.

Last fall, Paul Brown was inducted into the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. The citation for Brown reads in part: "...In addition to his great record, Brown is equally respected as a man who brought fine organization to professional football. He was the first to make coaching a year-round occupation, not only for himself but for a full-time resident coaching staff... a practice that has since become universal."

It's that time of year again when all the big boys take their double-A gassers and fuelers home to the garage or basement to rip apart for the winter. Along with the memories of hot sweaty days, clutch blowing, block cracking, axles twisting off, and "red lighting" on the line, these boys wouldn't give the sport up for anything. They say it's the thrill of the "g's" pushing you back into your cockpit going up to 210 mph in 7.5 sec. in a quarter of a mile, the roar and smell of your engines turning over several thousands of rpms per sec., and the smoke of your slicks fill in the air behind you. Most of all the gangs of drag racing fans cheer you on as you roar down the strip.

New Zealanders $200,000 Richer

Every driver's dream is to build and race his own car. New Zealand's Bruce McLaren, 31, has carried that dream several fancies farther -- practically everyone else is driving his cars too. In this year's six-race Canadian-American Challenge Series for Sports-Racing cars, 16 drivers in a field of 40, including McLaren and his countryman Denis Hulme, 32 - are piloting sleek, slope-nosed McLaren-built machines. Last month, in the fourth race of the series at Monterey, California, McLaren cars swept the first six places, with Hulme finishing second and McLaren fifth.

At Riverside, California, his cars took four of the first five places. This time, Hulme finished fifth and McLaren himself sped to victory. Barring accident, the finale at Las Vegas on November 10 should wrap up the championship and send the New Zealanders home with close to $200,000 in prizes.

Hill Is World Champion

MEXICO CITY - Poker-faced Graham Hill of England sailed serenely to a second world championship Sunday as he won the seventh Mexican Grand Prix, settling a record on the five-kilometer course of one hour, 56:43.95. The new track record didn't impress him. But winning the world championship did. Though he rarely cracked a smile during practice and the race, he finally let loose after it was all over, pitching champagne to his admirers as he basked in the honors of the victory circle.

Bruce McLaren of New Zealand was second and Jackie Oliver of England earned third place, giving England two top places in this race for the first time.

Hill's average speed for 65 laps was 167.053 kilometers per hour. McLaren was timed in one hour 58:03:27, with an average speed for 65 of 165.183 k.p.h. Oliver, third, finished 65 laps in one hour, 58:24.60, averaging 164.684 k.p.h.

Coach's Corner

The Thanksgiving Tournament is the 29th and 30th of this month and from all indications we will be ready. We are going to the tournament with a winning attitude, and I think we will surprise the people of West Virginia.

Lloyd Curtis, 5'10" guard from Grove City, has been outstanding in recent practice. He will be a starting guard with veteran Dick Rahn. Wyman Hawkins and either Gary Cochran or Mitchell Clay will be the starting forwards with Wendell Towns at center. Edward Evans, Dave Holsinger and Rick Congrove should see plenty of action and will give us the depth we need.

AVIATION

By TOM WEBB, Jr.

The United States Air Force Thunderbirds were activated in May, 1953, to "promote better understanding and appreciation of air power and to assist with the effective advancement of our national policy objectives." A unit of the Tactical Air Command, the team's mission is one of peace and goodwill.

Today, our air strength must be capable of world-wide application in a matter of hours, especially in Southeast Asia. The Thunderbirds typify pilot skill and group mobility continually to our people at home and around the world. When the Thunderbirds deploy, they move as a small, highly mobil, nearly self-sustaining task group which contains a full compliment of ground personnel. Every pilot is a selected professional Airman dedicated to the successful accomplishment of the team's responsibility and mission.

Aviation...

Starting at Luke A.F.B., Arizona, in Republic F-84G Thunderjets, the team next used F-84F Thunderstreaks, in 1955. One year later, the pilots moved to Nellies A.F.B., Nevada, and flew the North American F-100C Super Sabre. After a brief period of flying the Republic F-105B Thunderchief, in 1964, the team returned to the North American F100D which they have today.

In their 15-year history, the Thunderbirds have performed in 40 countries of the Free World, before more than 70 million thrilled spectators. They have been received by the heads of foreign and U.S. governments, and have personally greeted thousands of people... truly the United States Air Force "Ambassadors in Blue."

When I saw the Thunderbirds perform at the Cleveland National Air Races, they were the picture of perfection as they went through all their aerial maneuvers. I hope all of you have the chance to see the Thunderbirds soon.

Accreditation...

desire to attend college have difficulty in knowing which institutions provide education of good or superior quality. Moreover, persons and agencies which desire to assist in supporting colleges and universities often find it hard to select among the institutions on the basis of quality.

The practice of accreditation by the extra legal accreditation agencies has been developed to bring some order into a situation which might otherwise be chaotic. Also, to provide some guidance for those who have occasion to deal with institutions of higher education in ways that involve selection on the basis of quality.

October 26, Sigma Kappa Phi had a "wild time" at the hayride which was held at the High Chapel Stables in Reynoldsburg. President Bill Falvey was quite pleased with the turn-out of prospective members.

Activities for November were the monthly meeting, November 7, at which the members voted on the pledges; and the initiation proceedings held November 16.

The Fraternity is sponsoring a raffle for the scholarship fund. Every year the Fraternity awards two scholarships to deserving students. The prize is $100.00 or a portable T.V. set. The cost of a ticket is only $1.00 -- so it's worth your while to buy one now. The winner of the raffle will be drawn at the annual Christmas Dinner-Dance, December 14. This function will be held at Bridgeview Country Club with "Little Nicky and Rouges" providing entertainment.

Art Director Robert Paulding To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Heacock of Mt. Gilead, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter Sherry to Robert Paulding of Columbus, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Paulding, New Cumberland, Pa.

Miss Heacock is a 1967 graduate of Mt. Gilead High School, and a '68 graduate of Career Institute of America, majoring in Fashion Merchandising. She is now employed at Lazarus.

The groom-to-be attended Harrisburg Area Community College and attends Franklin University majoring in Construction Drawing. Mr. Paulding is Art/Design Director of the STUDENT VOICE: and is employed at the Christopher Construction Company.

The wedding is planned for September 5, 1969.
