Abbitt Is New Student Representative

New SKP Members

By LOUIS VARGA

The Sigma Kappa Phi fraternity of Franklin initiated 15 new members last November. They are Jim Fisher, Gary Ford, Donald Dixon, Donald Hackworth, Pete Klein, James L. Hollberg, Roger Coss, David Linstead, John K. Miller, Gary Adcock, Rick Taylor, Jayar Rankin, Greg Hill, John Murphy, and David Schaefer.

Pledges now available for initiation on March 22 are Gene Odenall, Ben Yonker, Larry Abbitt, Bill Riecks, Edwin Lewis, Dennis Jenkins, and Larry Hackenberg.

The neophytes, those to be voted on in March (to date) are David Oakes, Paul Law, Rich Guthrie, and Louis Varga.

On February 22, the fraternity plans a mix swim party at the Lincoln Park Pool Admission will be $1.00 per couple.

On March 1, a stag party is planned at the Owens-Illinois Club on Jenkins Ave. for actives and pledges.

Larry Abbitt, a third trimester student with a 3.0 point hour, was recently elected by the student body for the position of student representative.

Wayne Miller, a fourth trimester student, was Larry Abbitt's competition for the representative position. Mr. Miller had this to say about the election: "First of all I would like to extend my congratulations to Larry. This (the election) is not the place for students to stop but the place for them to start to help Larry. Larry will make a very good representative with the support of the students. So please Help!" The final ballot count was 89-Miller, and 122-Abbitt.

Mr. Abbitt began his term of office, informally, with his enthusiastic appearance at a special board meeting on Wednesday, January 29.

Abbitt's task this trimester will be to accurately relay the views and opinions of the student body by printing their "likes and dislikes" in this publication. The representative may gather information for his work by any means that is in the best interest of the students of Franklin University. Fellow students are encouraged to "sound-off" their desires and criticisms.

Abbitt, who is majoring in business administration, plans to get his degree in two years. He works for the Middle Atlantic Transportation Company, Inc., 997 Marion Rd.

As active students, we invite and welcome your support toward the goal of better student communication.

Larry Abbitt: Office - 224-2952, 5 E. Long St., Suite 612. Home - 276-4852, 796 Demorest Road, Columbus, Ohio 43204.

Newly elected Student Representative Larry Abbitt, at left, is congratulated by Voice Chairman John Murphy. Abbitt began his task of representing the students at a special board meeting on January 29.

A Son Is Born

By FRANKIE

Is it possible that a baby boy born Sunday, February 2, 1969, could have been named "Franklin" after our own Franklin University? It's possible but only seems to be a coincidence.

Christopher Franklin Grill was born at 5:28 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. F. Russell Grill. He weighed 8 lbs., 7 ozs.

When Mrs. Grill was taken into the operating room, Mr. Grill was also permitted to come along. He said, "To actually see what transpired was exciting."

Christopher Franklin is the third generation to carry on the family name of "Franklin." He is Mr. Grill's fourth child; there are two girls and one boy.

Mr. F. Russell Grill teaches Business Letters and English 101 at Franklin. All indications point to a very busy spring for Mr. Grill.

Student From Africa

By DEBBY THOMAS and FRANKIE

Among the twelve foreign students now attending Franklin is Ishmael Ben Koroma from Sierra Leone, West Africa.

Koroma came to Franklin University in the fall of 1968 and has been majoring in business administration. He plans to get his degree from Franklin and then receive his masters from a university in Indiana. Koroma became interested in Franklin and Columbus from a high school teacher.

Among his other interests, Koroma loves to write. He has written a book which he hopes to be published and many plays. He also loves to swim and says he never misses a day at the Y pool.

If you are interested in Africa then Koroma is the authority with whom you can converse. He enjoys meeting new people and will be glad to talk about any subject at all.

July Wedding For Fankouser

Philip Fankouser, first business manager on the Student Voice, recently announced his engagement to Miss Kathleen Lape, 3005 Brandon Road. Phil is a graduate of Franklin University, and is now a private in the Army Reserve at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. Kathleen is a graduate of Ready High School and is associated with Multicon Corporation, a division of Midland Ross, as a salesman.

Phil and Kathleen have tentatively set the date for July 19, 1969.

There is a wide range of tasks which need to be attended to. These tasks range from a small item such as having a bulletin board placed in the lobby, allowing easier viewing and reducing some of the congestion in the hall. The larger task, creating a constitution for a student government.

Coach Expresses Gratitude

Written By
Coach ROBERT GARROW

The Raiders lost their final home game against Wilberforce University, 109-93. The game, however, was closer than the score indicates, as has been the case all season long. Wyman Hawkins scored his season high of 25 points and had his best game since the season opener against Navy.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank those few people who were constant supporters at the home games. I also wish to thank Dana Helmick, Physical Director of the YMCA and his staff, without whose help and support our basketball program could not have succeeded. The relationship I have had with the Central YMCA is one which I shall always cherish.

I also wish to thank the student newspapers for their active support in promoting the program, and for their deep loyalty to the team. They have surely done their share to make Franklin University's basketball program a success.

institute or the secretarial school so that he may broaden his knowledge in his field. Many of the students are now employed in the fields where they will remain. The knowledge which the students retain from the University will increase his opportunity for advancement. Myself, along with other fellow students, feel that this unique student body needs and deserves a unique student government.

It has also been brought to my attention that at the graduation ceremonies it would be nice to have a well-known individual for a speaker. There are no honors mentioned at the ceremony, such as one graduating as sigma cum laude, or validictorian. Also, why isn't there a ball or dance so that graduating seniors can celebrate their accomplishments together?

Hipsher Gets Promotion

Mrs. June B. Hipsher, Franklin student, has been given a promotion with Kalwary Public Relations, Inc., 37 W. Broad St. Mrs. Hipsher, for 11 years involved in transportation promotional activities, community relations and special events, assumes the position of assistant to the president. Mrs. Hipsher is an associate member of the Public Relations Society of America.

Placement Service For Graduates

For those students graduating in April, August or December of 1969, Franklin's placement services may be for you. Those students interested in contacting employers through this service are asked to attend one of the following meetings, Monday, February 17 at 10:00 a.m. or also 7:30 p.m. Each session will be held in the Member Lounge (off the YMCA main lobby). Students are asked to bring suggestions of companies they wish to make contact with. If enough interest is shown in the company, the service will try to make arrangements for interviews.

Dick Posey-An Idea Man

Day Student Speaks Out

By SANDY CLEMENS

"I'm here to get an education not to get out of the draft," so stated Dick Posey, Franklin student. Posey, who has attended Franklin for two years majoring in business administration, feels that Franklin and its students are great. Posey, assistant manager of North Heidelberg Inc., 2082 N.

DICK POSEY

High, maintains that there is an apparent lack of communication between the students and the administration. He also feels that there is a "credibility gap" between Dr. Frasch and the Board of Trustees of the school.

"With no communication a college is no good, there is unrest here at the present time. The administration must think we don't need a student government but we do need it."

"We (students) should be able to communicate with the administration. It's wrong that we can't. The student representative does not do the job because he is not on the school Board of Trustees," explained Posey.

As a concerned student, Posey comments, "Teachers shouldn't be here if they can't communicate."

"The cut rules are ridiculous, they don't prove anything."

Posey states, "Another thing that is wrong with the school, is that we should finish basic requirements before our majors. There should also be more comprehensive courses offered such as Psychology 1, 2, & 3. In other words, a person should get the type of education he wants."

On accreditation Posey had this to say, "What the hell does the Accreditation Association mean to me, it doesn't affect my life. To some students, accreditation means something, to others it doesn't. I don't know if too many people know that Michigan State and Harvard are not accredited universities."

"If Franklin is to play the role of an inter-city school it should cater to the inter-city." Dick is active with the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which helps with such projects as Franklin Village Christmas tours and the bikes for kids at Christmas. From his experiences with these groups he feels that Franklin is not an inter-city school.

With the new building in mind, Posey concludes, "Projection is the only way the school will grow, but it won't start overnight."

Franklin's "Upper Echelon"

By FRANKIE

Tom Smith, Jim Walz, Jeff Reis, and Buck Fleming could soon become as common to you as John Lennon, Paul McCartney, Ringo Starr, and George Harrison. The four comprise to bring the "soul" sound of today to the groovy people of today.

Three members of the "Upper Echelon," as they are known, are Franklin students. Tom Smith, Jim Walz, and Jeff Reis are majoring in Business Administration at Franklin University. Jim and Tom plan to graduate in August, 1970 with their bachelor degrees.

The group, which was formed four months ago, has a definite goal -- Money! Two of the members, Tom, who is lead singer and lead guitar, and Jim, who sings and plays the organ, are very seriously interested in music. They plan to make a career of music.

They appear regularly at Remo's, 1435 Grandview Avenue, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights from 9:00 to 1:00.

Ron Pataky-Critic Rates Movie Rating Code

Interview and Story By SANDY CLEMENS

"A rating system was bound to come along sooner or later in one way or another," commented Mr. Ron Pataky, movie critic for the Columbus CITIZEN-JOURNAL.

Mr Pataky was expressing his ideas on the current movie code system. "It's good that the industry has taken on the responsibility of rating their own product, they are more qualified to rate objectively than an independent board," he continued. "I'm glad to see the industry accept the responsibility for the public."

The code is as follows: G-general audiences, M-mature audiences (parental discretion advised), R-restricted (persons under 16 not admitted unless accompanied by an adult), X-persons under 16 not admitted and, U-uncoded.

The "Impossible" Flick

By SALLY SEARS

Today's teenage set baffle both psychiatrists and the teenagers themselves. This is the main topic of the flick, The Impossible Years.

The central figure is a successful psychiatrist, played by David Niven, whose best selling book on the sex problems in modern life provides all the answers. The only problem is his daughter (Christina Ferra) is two chapters ahead of him!

This is truly one of the greatest "comedies" of all times and a must to see!

This must-see flick is currently playing at Lowes Morse Road.

Ice In The Office

The administration office at Franklin seems to be in a constant state of non-communication. The people who should know, don't. The people who do know are tied-up for the moment. The students who go into the office are there to ask questions about their academic situation. These questions are to be dutifully answered by those in the office. There are any number of instances in which students have been turned out of the office for trite reasons. We know the office personnel are busy; sometimes working, but that is no reason for students being dismissed as intruders. The ice in the office can be melted by heat, but I'm sure there's a better way.

viewpoint

By Chairman John M. Murphy

Fire! If you heard this word yelled in our hallways, what would you do? Where would you go?

These questions have occurred to me and other students. But a solution to these questions takes more thought than "I would jump out of the nearest window" or the "everyone for himself theory."

One needed solution would be printed instructions for each student which would inform him of the proper safety precautions and directions for leaving the building in case of fire. Another solution for future safety would be to have instructors give directions to the students in their respective classes.

With over 50 students in each classroom, fire procedures are a necessity in our 67-year-old building. It would seem to me that the administration is pressing its luck and taking chances with our lives. I certainly wouldn't want the responsibility on my head... Dr. Frasch!

Welk And Hendrix Miles Apart

"Well kids, here we are sitting in the University President's office, and we can hold out as long as the cheeseburgers keep comin' in."

Yes, we college students are for the most part helping to bring the establishment, of the last half of the 20th century, to its arthritic knees.

The Generation Gap has existed ever since Cain and Abel started thinking different than Adam. Up to now its just been called family disagreement. Since this is, an age of lables, the Generation Gap is as good as any.

The "Gap" presents itself in the family as an adolescent attempts to exert some free lance thinking. This thinking is healthy. A conflict arises when parents, responsible for the younger generation, make too much of growing up. Chances are good that daddy didn't talk to junior enough about anything when he was growing up. Thus the Generation "Gap" becomes a communication gap. Junior is not asking daddy to grow his side-burns, or know all the words to "Strawberry Fields Forever," but just to listen. Even in daddy's spare time (during commercials) he could learn a lot, if junior's at home that is.

The "juniors" aren't exactly Marshall McLuhans either. Despite the theories, "you are what your environment makes you," you do know right from wrong. You must, as the one learning, make a sincere effort to talk and listen. You must put yourself out in the sun and plow up daddy's mental wasteland. If no ideas are exchanged willingly, then no problems will be solved. Even if daddy doesn't agree with you, its your duty to tell him how you feel. A mutual child-parent respect must be present before any talk can begin. You must know each others values in order to find common ground. Lawrence Welk and Jimi Hendrix are a million miles apart, your parents are in the next room. TALK-IT-UP.

Organize! (together)

The first congratulations I want to give is to Larry Abbitt as Student Representative and a notification that he has my complete support--How about yours!! I've found that the students of Franklin have a great nack of getting into small groups and discussing and criticizing the problems and policies of the University, but are too embarrassed or too shy to let their feelings and conclusions be known. Let's organize!! Bind our powers as a student body instead of splitting our forces and fighting on too many different fronts. All defeated countries of the world have proven this to be fatal, ARE YOU DEAD!!!

Wayne R. Miller Student

possible as a result of a raffle SKP holds each year. And because of a sincere effort on the part of the Fraternity the scholarships to be awarded at the April graduation are larger than ever.

I wish to encourage all students at Franklin University to take an interest in their school activities and to take an active part in the awarding of these scholarships by using the applications on the bulletin boards in the halls or by inquiring in the office.

Henry J. Mullaney Sigma Kappa Phi Fraternity Brother

Who Is "Franklin"?

I imagine that our university was given the title of Franklin University after some great person or place in America. The funny thing is that nobody seems to know how Franklin obtained its name, not even Dr. Frasch.

Could it have been named after Benjamin Franklin or Sir John Franklin (lifetime explorer of the Northwest Passage), or could it have originated from Franklinton, the maiden name of Columbus? Even going through old bulletins in the library I only discovered that in 1933, the name of our school was changed from Columbus College of Law to Franklin University.

Since this matter is not clear, I suggest that as of now, the school put on record that Franklin University was given its name after one of America's greatest statesmen and inventors, namely, Benjamin Franklin.

When and if this is cleared I would like very much to see each graduating class of Franklin contribute money toward a statue or bust of Ben to be erected at the site of the new "Un-Campus."

Don Barton, Student

Give Us Something To Have Spirit About

The administration of Franklin University is a "yes-man" to someone. They are running the university like a business not a place of learning and knowledge. I would like to state some ideas of my own: If you want a book, you have to buy it at the university bookstore at their prices, because Franklin doesn't put books on sale for the general public. They seem to think that a lot of the students are draft-dodgers and flunkies, so they are taking it out on the students by charging outlandish fees, $360 for 15 hours a trimester. They don't even seem to care about getting academic accreditation for the university because they care more about the money than the advancement of the student-body. Without this there is no incentive for people to come right from high school to Franklin. Maybe this is why no one can get the school spirit--give us something to have spirit about, will you?

Roller Derby In Columbus

By Roger W. Miller

On Monday night, January 20, 1969, approximately 5100 people flocked to the Ohio State fairgrounds coliseum to see roller derby in Columbus. The game had been scheduled two months prior and the anxious ticket holders eagerly awaited its arrival.

The two teams competing were the San Francisco Bay Area Bombers and the New England Braves. The Braves won the game 42-41 in the closing five seconds. A penalty on Bomber Captain Charlie O'Connell gave Brave, Bob Woodbury (#77) the decisive one point win over the Bombers.

A roller derby team is made up of 10 players, five men and five women. Some of the more prominent male skaters, for the Bombers are Captain Charlie O'Connell, Cliff Butler, and Bill McCarty. For the women there is Captain (the favorite of many people) Joan Weston, Francine Cochu, and Candy Jones. For the Braves male team are Captain (notoriously known) Ronnie Robinson, Bob Woodbury, and Buzz Saunders, and the women's team there is Captain Cathie Reed, Margie Laszlo, and Barbara Hawthorne.

Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Office, Richman Brothers, 37 N. High. Roller Derby can be seen every Saturday night at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 6.

Conflict On Ice

By Roger W. Miller

Along with cold weather comes winter sports. Ice hockey is the winter sport which centers around such men as Doug Volmas, Gerry Randall, Bert Frizzell, and Serge Boudreal. These men, with others, ban together and form the Columbus Checkers. Although, being in existence for only two years the Checkers have had crowds in excess of 5,000 (in February of their first year).

Monday night, February 3rd, the Checkers played host to the sixth place Port Huron Flags. Since the teams were evenly matched, offensively as well as defensively, the resulting score was a tie (2-2). Goals were scored by Flags Jerry Korab and Dave Gorman. The Checker goals were made by Alton White and Doug Volmar, alias "the Howitzer." The tying goal was scored in the last 11 minutes of the game by Flags defenseman Jerry Korab.

The Columbus Checkers along with six other teams are members of the International Hockey League Teams range from the first place Dayton Gems to the last place Des Moines Oak Leafs.

Movie Rating

Pataky states that the rating system is inadequate in its present state. "First, many films haven't even been rated yet; and second the industry itself still has a great deal to learn about American tastes and mores."

When asked if the managers are maintaining the code Pataky replied, "I know for a fact that the great majority of them are using the code. We are fortunate to have in Columbus a responsible group of managers who try to do their best," he continued, "I don't know of one theater manager that objects to the rating."

The code is here and as Pataky states, "The rating of pictures is subliminal censorship -- a kind of necessary evil. But it's here to stay."

Question Of Accreditation

By Larry Abbott

Franklin University is progressing toward accreditation by North Central. But isn't it possible that Franklin is already able to meet the requirements with (1) The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, (2) The American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, (3) Accrediting Commission for Business Schools, (4) Registered with the New York State Department of Education as offering Preparation for Certified Public Accountants, and (5) The Engineers council for Professional Development.

Would being registered or accredited by these associations hinder our being accredited by the North Central? Isn't it possible that if we could meet the requirements for these associations that it would more quickly advance us toward accreditation by North Central?

This space to relieve the frustrations of the Art/Design staff.
